

Read the stories from pages 8 and 10 of First News. Read the articles and then try the puzzle. To help you we have underlined the answers in the stories, but you will need to match the correct word with each clue!

WORLD NEWS

COLOMBIA

WILD HIPPO CULL

EXPERTS have said that wild hippos in Colombia need to be culled as they're having a damaging effect on local wildlife and the environment.

A group of hippos were imported into the country for a criminal's private zoo decades ago, but some were released and their numbers have grown massively. Around 100 are concentrated around one of the country's main waterways, the River Magdalena.

Scientists fear that unless the population is reduced, the hippos will cause huge problems. They believe the non-native species could have an impact on the local ecosystem, affecting native species like the manatee and even altering the levels of chemicals found in rivers.

However, not everyone is for the cull, especially as hippos are considered a vulnerable species.

USA

Bear bum shock

A woman in Alaska got the fright of her life when she went to the loo in an outdoor toilet out in the wilderness. As Shannon Stevens sat down, something bit her bare bum. Her brother Erik came to investigate and was stunned by what he saw. He said: "I opened the toilet seat and there's a bear face just right there at the level of the toilet seat, just looking right back up through the hole, right at me!" The pair ran back to their yurt and Erik treated Shannon's sore bum with a first aid kit. Luckily, it wasn't a serious injury and Shannon was okay.

ITALY

Mount Etna erupts

Europe's most active volcano, Mount Etna, erupted a number of times throughout last week, spewing a fountain of lava and ash into the sky. Authorities said that they were monitoring the situation, but that they didn't think it posed any danger to nearby villages. The European Space Agency (ESA) used a satellite to watch the eruption and to measure the lava flows inside the volcano. They also used atmospheric sensors on satellites, which can identify the gases released by the eruption and look at the wider environmental impact.

ACROSS

- 2) Without protection; at risk of being harmed (adjective 10)
- 4) This type of sensor does its work in the layer of gases that surround planet Earth (adjective 11)
- 6) The explosion and discharge of lava from a volcano (noun 8)
- 7) Killed to control their numbers (past participle 6)

DOWN

- 1) A wildland, such as a forest, desert or other area of natural land that is not used by people (noun 10)
- 3) Any area where living creatures such as plants and animals interact with non-living things, such as soil and water (noun 9)
- 5) Damage to the body (noun 6)
- 8) A mountain or hill, with a crater or vent through which lava, rock fragments, hot vapour, and gas are or have been erupted from the earth's crust (noun 7)

Read the stories from pages 8 and 10 of First News. Read the articles and then try the puzzle. The answers to the clues are all words in the stories. Answer the clue and then underline the word.

WORLD NEWS

COLOMBIA

WILD HIPPO CULL

EXPERTS have said that wild hippos in Colombia need to be culled as they're having a damaging effect on local wildlife and the environment.

A group of hippos were imported into the country for a criminal's private zoo decades ago, but some were released and their numbers have grown massively. Around 100 are concentrated around one of the country's main waterways, the River Magdalena.

Scientists fear that unless the population is reduced, the hippos will cause huge problems. They believe the non-native species could have an impact on the local ecosystem, affecting native species like the manatee and even altering the levels of chemicals found in rivers.

However, not everyone is for the cull, especially as hippos are considered a vulnerable species.

USA

Bear bum shock

A woman in Alaska got the fright of her life when she went to the loo in an outdoor toilet out in the wilderness. As Shannon Stevens sat down, something bit her bare bum. Her brother Erik came to investigate and was stunned by what he saw. He said: "I opened the toilet seat and there's a bear face just right there at the level of the toilet seat, just looking right back up through the hole, right at me!" The pair ran back to their yurt and Erik treated Shannon's sore bum with a first aid kit. Luckily, it wasn't a serious injury and Shannon was okay.

ITALY

Mount Etna erupts

Europe's most active volcano, Mount Etna, erupted a number of times throughout last week, spewing a fountain of lava and ash into the sky. Authorities said that they were monitoring the situation, but that they didn't think it posed any danger to nearby villages. The European Space Agency (ESA) used a satellite to watch the eruption and to measure the lava flows inside the volcano. They also used atmospheric sensors on satellites, which can identify the gases released by the eruption and look at the wider environmental impact.

ACROSS

- 2) Without protection; at risk of being harmed (adjective 10)
- 4) This type of sensor does its work in the layer of gases that surround planet Earth (adjective 11)
- 6) The explosion and discharge of lava from a volcano (noun 8)
- 7) Killed to control their numbers (past participle 6)

DOWN

- 1) A wildland, such as a forest, desert or other area of natural land that is not used by people (noun 10)
- 3) Any area where living creatures such as plants and animals interact with non-living things, such as soil and water (noun 9)
- 5) Damage to the body (noun 6)
- 8) A mountain or hill, with a crater or vent through which lava, rock fragments, hot vapour, and gas are or have been erupted from the earth's crust (noun 7)

